JAPAN'S BEST FRIEND.

The Emperor Tells General Congdon It Is America.

General Joseph W. Congdon of New York, president of the American Silk association, returned to San Francisco recently from a trip to Japan on the Nippon Maru, says the New York Tribune. His report on conditions in Japan is of interest.

"I found Japanese exportation," he said, "of manufactured silk to this country was not as great as formerly. The tendency of the Japanese is to hold up prices."

"The handkerchief trade, which was formerly large in this country, has fallen off. The exportation from Japan of handkerchiefs, or piece silks, is also greatly reduced. We take in America fully one-half of the entire crop of Japan. This year it will be fully 15 per cent more than the average, but the market will not be brisk on account of the high prices asked by the Japanese, who are taking advantage of the fact that the Italian crop is 30 per cent less than normal."

"The emperor of Japan, to whom I was presented, said he looked forward to closer commercial relations with America, particularly with regard to the silk industry. He said he regarded the United States as really Japan's best friend among nations."

"Personally the emperor had only the kindest feelings for Americans. Throughout Japan I noticed that preparations seemed to be well in hand for the coming conflict with Russia, and it will be a surprise to me if there is not war in view of the feeling existing in Japan. The country seems to be ready for any emergency."

A New Way to Europe.

A route across the Atlantic which would greatly shorten the ocean voyage is being discussed in England, says Harper's Weekly. It is proposed to utilize the harbor of Galway, situated on the western coast of Ireland, and run a line of express steamers between there and St. John's, on the coast of Newfoundland, a distance of 1,816 miles, while the rest of the journey to New York could be made for most of the way by fast trains. It is believed that the trip from London to the American metropolis could thus be shortened by at least a day. From New York to Southampton is almost twice as far as from Galway to St. John's—3,116 miles—while the distance from New York to Liverpool is 3,005 miles.

Are you about to build? If so see that your builder's contract has a clause providing that the structure shall be erected by union labor which will insure you of good work and a job completed without delay. Per order Union 481, Carpenters and Joiners of America. A. B. Lane, secretary.
